What a Type-Setting Sachine Can Do! Colonel Halpine, in the Citizen, gives an interesting description of the Alden typesetting machine, from which we extract the following particulars:

"Each of these mechines will to-day enable any intelligent man or woman. can apply it. Always gives satisfaction. Only 76 with a little practice, to do neatly, pleasantly and unerringly the same amount of labor now performed—always painfully, always erringly, and often at a sacrifice of health—by any six of our swiftest practi-cal printers. The whole machine for setting up type is indeed analogous to a cir-cular piano, the key-board occupying but a small space on one side of the machine, and each key being marked with its pecu-Har letter, or combination of letters, such as ing, 'ed,' 'the,' 'that,' 'is,' 'ough,' and so forth. So absolutely simple is its operaso forth. So absolutely simple is its opera-tion, indeed—caused by the elaborate per-fection of its mechanism—that even on the first day of seeing it, any child knowing how to spell could, with very little instruc-tion, commence setting up type more rapid-ly and accurately than could a practical printer of the present day merely working with his fingers.

"These machines, too—elaborate as they are, and having cost the life of their first inventor, Timothy Alden, and more than two hundred thousand dollars, since expeded in bringing them to their present per-tection—are so chesp and durable that we prophesy, ere many years, they will find a place in every con mercial or other business house having an extensive correspondence; and even in the private residences of gen-tlemen who may be amateur wooers of the Muses or the Belles Lettres, or who, from any cause, shall desire to have ready means within their reach for multiplying copies of any letter, parquinade, invitation, business cument, circular or other issue of written thought. In a word, this machine-its total cost only $2,000, its material parts lasting for fifty years, and its most delicate proportions, even with the hardest work of a great daily, good for a fourth or fifth of that time, and instantaneously renewable at the trifling cost of some few dollars this machine, we say, impresses us as an in-auguration of 'every man as his own prin-ter and publisher;' and before many years, we expect they will be as common an inion in first classhouses as steamheaters iron safes, a billiard table, or a refrigerating

"But it was not the setting up of the type that struck us as the most wonderful levelopment of this really amazing piece development of this really smaning piece of mechanism. In that operation, human intelligence, though only working lightly with the point of a single finger, selected overy type, attended to the sense and spelling, comprehended the difference between nonparell, brevier, bourgeois, small cars and agate; and in a word, presided over the machine as its intellectual controller. What is to be thought, however, of the operation of re-distributing the types after they have been used—placing each letter, point and space back into its proper and appointed place, ready for future use—

The Proprieters of the New York Museum of Anatcusy have determined, regardless of appears, to issue free (for the benefit of suffering humanity, and suppression of quactory) four of their most intersuling and instructive Lectures on Marriags and its disqualifications, Nervous and Physical Debility, Fremature decline of Manhood, Ludgestion, Westcome of Depression. Humanity of the property to work it, while its own brains and eyes o steel and brass spell out every word, give one deference to each punctuation mark due deference to each punctuation mark and character of type, and send back every single letter with a fillip to the receptacle of its proper kin, there to await further calls of duty.

"Timothy Alden, a practical printer by trade and a born genius in mechanics, devoted over swenty years of his life to the construction of this wonder of ingenuity; construction of this wonder of ingenity; and died—another Moses, seeing but not entering this promised land—just as the first rude model was completed and in working order. To him succeeds his cousin, Henry W. Alden, who had spent over $40,000, accumulated by hard labor in the gold mines of California, as pabulum to-ward feeding the infant days of this vora-cious dicovery; and last, associating him-self with this surviving cousin, organizing a company composed of the most respon-It prevents or stops the Hair from falling; Cleanses, Beautifies, Preserves, and renders it Soft and Glossy, and the Head free from Dandruff.

It is the best Hair Dressing and It is the world.

And evoking the capus we have the companies of Timoshy Alden's life 'bloom to profit as a thing of world-wide and eternal value for all generations of men—came Charles C. Yeaton, now of Brooklyn, whose charge carries in the world.

It is the best Hair Dressing and patience of the mechanic, the flery zest and sanguine faith of the discoverer, and those more common-place, but not less values of the more common-place in the companies of the more common c sible and leading citizens of the metropolis, and evoking the capital to make the work those more common-place, but not less valconfidence, and go to form what is called the 'perfect business man.' If it bethought we speak warmly of Mr. Yeston, it is be-cause he has impressed us much, and made us so feel, after unusual facilities for studyng both his work and his character.

Still a young man, and with rather the air of a handsome fashionable than a savon, air of a handsome fashionable than a saven, the factory he has organized is, in itself, a machine almost as wonderful and perfect as the machines it makes. How many hundred or thousand parts there are in each separate Alden type-setter and dis-tributor we do not know; but we do know that, if it made a million of these machines, that, if it made a million of these machines, every screw, spring, pin or other part of each would be transferable or interchangeable with the similar fragment of every other machine so made—each atom of each automaton bearing a similar number, and Mr. Yeaton having specially devised and created for the manufacture and numbering of each part peculiar tools and machinery, and the statement in severy cases a precisely similar of each part peculiar tools and machinery, producing in every case a precisely similar result. Thus, if by carelessness or accident any pin, or screw, or spring or other limb—minor or major—of any of these machines away out at San Francisco, or Hong Kong, Hakodahi, should be broken or lost, the proprietor would only have to consult the copiously illustrated explanation-book prepared by Mr. Yeston and sent to every purchaser, find out the number of the missing part, and write to the nearest agency or the New York factory for "Number 280," or whatever else might be its number. But lew parts of the machine, however, are liable to any ordinary accident, all the work being carefully and strongly protected; while all such more

The physician who visits Mitchel daily, not-withstanding his sullenness, has given it withstanding his sullenness, has given it as his opinion that Mitchel is laboring as his opinion that mitches is latering under the insidious attacks of pulmonary consumption, and that in a few weeks more he will be prostrated if not allowed out-door exercise and a more generous diet than the soldiers' fare upon which he has hitherto subsisted. On the conscientious representations of the doctor, Mitchel's diet was changed two days ago, and a full and true statement of his physical condi-tion forwarded to the War Department, with the request and recommendation that he, too, be allowed the privilege of out-
